

50-State Comparison: English Learner Policies

Type of funding

May 2020

The following information was gathered from state statute and regulation. However, if statute or regulation stated that the funding method was determined by another entity, the funding method set externally is provided as well.

There are four EL program funding methods captured:

- Foundation Formula: Districts receive a base amount of funding per student with additional money or weights added to fund English learners. (33 states and the District of Columbia)
- Resource Allocation Model: States distribute resources rather than assigning weights or dollar values for English learners. (6 states)
- Grant: The state requires districts to apply for funding, and districts must make a case for why they should receive additional funding. Funding for English learners is distributed outside of the funding formula. (6 states)
- Reimbursement: Districts submit actual expenditures to the state, and the state reimburses districts for all or a portion of their spending. Funding for English learners is distributed outside of the funding formula. (1 state)

Four states do not specify their funding models in statute or regulation. View the full 50-State Comparison: English Learner Policies here.
